CAPITAL PRECINCTS: PARLIAMENT AND MEMORIAL PARK

Wellington is the proud capital city of New Zealand. This status contributes significantly to the city's character and is a symbol of New Zealand's great contribution to democracy globally.

The buildings and landscapes associated with Wellington's capital status – principally the Beehive and the surrounding parliamentary precinct – do not present a coherent set of buildings and open spaces. This diminishes the importance of these spaces as the home of New Zealand's Government and democracy.

This project involves three initiatives:

- Improving links from Parliament to the waterfront and creating more coherence between this area's buildings, streets and open spaces.
- Ensure the new Memorial Park outside the War Memorial helps create a strong memorial precinct.
- Introduce a processional route through the city from Parliament to Government House.
